

UNITED BREAKS OUT

30 July - 03 August 2020

Every year many of us at St James' attend a Christian festival called New Wine - United. Not surprisingly, because of Covid-19 it has been impossible to host such a festival this year. Despite this, the brilliant New Wine team have put together a complete online festival for all ages to allow us to go deeper with God and connect with one another. As a church we will be taking part in this, and we would love you to all join in! Year after year so many of us have really enjoyed New Wine and we hope that you can be blessed by it this year as well. We want to keep the community spirit alive so we've got some creative ideas to help people stay connected during the long weekend (see next page).

On Sunday 2nd August, we will not be holding our regular online service with Keith leading us (in his usual checked shirt!) as we would like to invite and encourage you to watch the New Wine morning celebration service at 11am and the service, "Responding well to Crisis", in the evening (with Archbishop Justin Welby). Other than these two key services which we would really love you to attend, we encourage you devote more time this weekend to going deeper with God and dedicating part or all of the weekend to joining us and thousands of others at United Breaks Out.

There are superb interactive streams for our children and youth packed with songs, stories and gunge and an Augmented Reality App for our younger children and breakfast time devotions & chat, challenges, workshops, evening celebrations & after parties for our youth (Luminosity).

The morning and evening celebration services (Thursday to Monday) with world-class speakers are engaging and thought-provoking. For those who want to go deeper there are seminars and more interactive 'sofa sessions' and Q&As in the afternoons on key issues that matter today. The key theme for the seminars are creation care, apologetics, mental health, prayer, grief and loss, race and diversity and parenting for faith - we have attached a full schedule of all the services and seminars on offer.

If you have not been to New Wine United before and the main programme looks a bit overwhelming we have put together a 'St. James' recommends' schedule of ideas below for your weekend. Please do invite friends round to watch the seminars and services with you as this is a good opportunity for you to be able to talk and pray about what you have heard with others (keeping to government guidelines of course!).

If something in one of the services really speaks to you personally, whether it's the sermon, the worship, or if you would just like to talk to someone about something that is going on in your life, we will be holding 1-to-1 virtual prayer sessions after the main services on Saturday and Sunday. Please email newwineprayer2020@gmail.com

Catherine & Elliot will be looking forward to receiving your the emails for half an hour after the 11am morning services and Jane & Anthony will be looking forward to receiving your emails for half an hour after the 8pm evening services. We would love to chat and pray with you.

In true New Wine spirit, some of us have decided that we are going to camp in our gardens have BBQs and decorate our tents with fairy lights and neon flags! It would be brilliant if you would like to join in with this adding your own creative festival feel ideas.

Here is a list of some easy (and optional) ways to make it feel more like you're at New Wine United:

- Sleep on the floor all the way through the long weekend. With the curtains open. Because we all know that camping feeling of waking up at 5am with sunlight streaming in.
- Whenever you go to the toilet, take your own stash of toilet roll.
- Get up early or stay up late for a shower. Oh! And don't forget to queue for 20 minutes first.
- Wear a wristband, then accidentally tighten it too much and have to cut it off. Whoops.

STAY IN TOUCH

To help the conversation, we have created a WhatsApp group where we can share pictures of our weekends, arrange to meet up, talk about sessions we've attended and questions raised.

Please join our new WhatsApp group today using the link below and be part of the conversation both leading up to, during and after the weekend.

Community Ideas:

We really want everyone to enjoy United Breaks Out as much as possible, so here are some ideas to help you share it with your family and friends:

- Invite another household over to watch a seminar of interest
- Invite another household (or 6 friends) to join you for the Sunday service(s) and a picnic in the garden afterwards
- Invite a few people round for a drink/BBQ one evening
- Camp out in your garden (perhaps even with another household!)
- Join with another family for one of the children's activity sessions
- Share your pictures, thoughts and post-seminar comments on the WhatsApp chat
- Join in the Big Quiz night and 90s disco!

Luminosity (youth stream) have created a great guidebook including a kit list, festival recipes and information on their afterparties for the young and young at heart!
